Angus Morton

Angus Morton is a student at the College. He has been singing since he was a child and among other highlights in his singing career he recorded a CD of inspirational songs last year. Angus not only sings but has also written some of the songs.

For many years Angus has been involved with the Orpheus Centre in Surrey. This organisation was founded by Richard Stilgoe to provide access to and training in performing arts for people with disabilities.

Angus loves singing, he is a 'high baritone'. He sings in church and has entertained local groups including Age Concern, and the W.I. He has sung for the Mayor in Bexley and was nominated by the Orpheus Centre to sing at the Queen's 80th birthday celebration at Windsor Castle.

Copies of Angus' CD are available to buy - contact the College for details.
